

CANINE CHARACTERS

an interactive database of all your favorite movie dogs

With this interactive database, users can browse a massive collection of dogs from movies, and the movies that they appear in!

Who is this interface for, and why is it here?

This interface gives users a brand new look at their favorite characters and movies, being able to see in depth to each dog and film. While there are services out there like this for human characters, there is a huge lack of browsable information about animal characters.

This booklet will show how the interface is navigated, and some of its many functions.

View every dog in the starting page!

Users can browse the full database by scrolling left and right on the dogs! You can even change the size and way that you view the characters with the controls at the bottom of the sidebar.

Movies, Too!

Just like the dog index page, you can click on the film tab on the sidebar to toggle between dog and film view. On this page you have a different set of sort constraints and filters.

And the movie details!

Theres a whole different set of detail pages for films as well, you can find different information on each film, and page from film to film. The information set is still just as dynamic though, and you can click any active text to view more movies with the same constraint!
